AN OLD LOVE LETTER.

The flying years, the silent years,
Swept o'er this safely hidden page,
Till time, that deep sunk mystery clears,
Gives me the dateless heritage.

Where beat the heart, where burnt the brain,
That all this pain and passion felt?
On leaves defaced by mold and stain,
The secret of a life is spelt.

Why rashly lift, why rudely read,
The softening vale that death and time,
Conspiring Life with Art to blend,
Have hung between her soul and mine?

Enough to know, enough to feel
That one immortal bliss endures;
The love these ardent words reveal
May happily mirror mine—or yours.

TROUBLE INDEED.

"Have you seen Ethel?" said one summer resort girl to another.
"Yes," replied the other. "She is dreadfully worried."
"Why?"
"Harold Skiffins is coming from the city to see her tonight, and she has forgotten which engagement ring is his."
